AND "ANNEX."

As usual at this season we mark down great many Cloaks; odd garments for instance are reduced: styles that do not sell as fast as we think they should are reduced, oftentime so low that what we ask is only about the price of material. By this plan, and daily adding fresh garments, our Clook stock retains its freshness to the end. The early part of the day is the best to see on account of the crowd after about eleven o'clock.

Tits case of the State vs. Leon Van Walt, charged by W. A. Manley with embezzling the sum of ten dollars, was tried by Justice Caldwell yesterday forenoon. Manley employed Van Walt as a salesman for his shirt factory. The charge was that Van Walt had collected $10 from a customer and converted it to his own use. The evidence failed to substantiate any such charge, and the justice accordingly discharged the defendant. Van Walt claims that Manley owes him mossey on salary. He naturally feels somewhat vexed over the arrest and publicity in the case, when there was no foundation for the charge. COMPLETE lines of Men's and Boys' Reversible Ulsterettes. To cap the climax, however, the Register unblushingly states in its report of the action on the report of the Committee on Streets, Alleys and Grades the following:

"In connection with this report, the report of the City Surveyor in relation to the Seventeenth street bridge, printed in Monday's Register, was also taken up."

The Register in Monday's issue did not have a word about the City Surveyor's report, while the interface contained the full report. The exhibition of cheek displayed in making such an assertion is astonishing, coming even from the Register.

Trouble has been brewing among the head of the boat for some little time.

Yesterday's rain was general along the head waters of the Ohio, and a booming river may be looked for this evening. Last night at 8 o'clock the river was rising fast with 0 feet in the channel. Merchants having freight along the wharf were engaged in moving it as rapidly as possible.

This afternoon Seamon and White will the safe from all attacks. The remedy to use is Kidney-Wort. It is the best preventaily of all malarial diseases that you can take see advertisement in another column. the wharf were engaged in moving it as rapidly as possible.

This afternoon Seamon and White will start their new boat, the Little Anna, in the Martin's Ferry and Wheeling trade. This is something that has never before been tried and should receive encouragement, as it will save many a dollar to this place that now goes to Bellaire via the C. & P. It is the intention to make round trips once an hour, and time tables will soon be published. The boat is well adapted to this trade and undoubtedly the merchants will appreciate it.
